Staff Reflection

I can do all things in him who strengthens me.

This statement of St. Paul's in today's 2nd Reading is one we see quoted quite often. We see it on beautiful posters, and bumper stickers and many Christian athletes like to make reference to it as a way to spur them on to victory. I myself pray it every morning. We were taught to say this prayer as novices when we put on our habit crucifix, and I have been saying it daily for many years. It is a beautiful scriptural saying, but like many verses that we become very familiar with, it can lose its true power due to triteness.

As with many athletes who like to quote it, we can all look at ourselves as "spiritual athletes." When I pray it as I dress each morning, I am asking God to help me succeed or "win" at whatever tasks lie ahead that day, hopefully remembering that all I do is for the spread of His Kingdom on earth.

Yet, it is good to reflect on the whole reading from which this phrase is taken, and to better understand in what spirit St. Paul was writing. When he was composing this letter to the Church in Philippi, he was actually writing from prison. So, Paul was not reflecting on tasks to be accomplished, or games to be won. He was actually reflecting on his present reality in his life, which at that moment was not the best situation. But instead of lamenting or complaining or blaming, he noted the good situations he had experienced in his life, of "living in abundance" and he seems to have a calm and peaceful sense about his situation as it was. As a good Jewish man who knew the Hebrew Scriptures, he was in a way echoing the sentiment of Job...the Lord gives and the Lord takes away, blessed be the name of the Lord.

Paul refers to this life lesson, this gleaned wisdom, as a "secret." I myself have encountered quite a few Christian men and women who have also learned this secret about life. They keep their peace and equanimity whether in good times, or times of suffering, times of abundance or times of need. They do not panic nor grow complacent. And their secret of peace is their deep trust in the Lord, no matter the circumstance. So, when I pray this quote each morning, I should not be thinking of tasks to be accomplished or challenges to be won, but of trust in God's accompaniment throughout all the moments of the day, good or bad, joyful or sad, calm or worried. Like St. Paul, we too can learn this secret.

Peace to you this day!

Sister Eileen

Synod Update

This Synod is intended as a Synodal Process. The aim of this synodal process is not to provide a temporary or one-time experience of synodality, but rather to provide an opportunity for the entire People of God to discern together how to move forward on the path towards being a more synodal Church in the long-term.

A basic question prompts and guides us: How does this journeying together allow the Church to proclaim the Gospel in accordance with the mission entrusted to Her; and what steps does the Spirit invite us to take in order to grow as a synodal Church?

The Themes of the Synod:

Communion

The communion we share finds its deepest roots in the love and unity of the Trinity. Together, we are inspired by listening to the Word of God, through the living Tradition of the Church, and grounded in the sensus fidei that we share. We all have a role to play in discerning and living out God's call for his people.

Participation

Participation is based on the fact that all the faithful are qualified and are called to serve one another through the gifts they have each received from the Holy Spirit in baptism. In a synodal Church the whole community is called together to pray, listen, analyse, dialogue, discern and offer advice on making pastoral decisions which correspond as closely as possible to God's will.

Mission

Our mission is to witness to the love of God in the midst of the whole human family. This Synodal Process has a deeply missionary dimension to it. It is intended to enable the Church to better witness to the Gospel, especially with those who live on the spiritual, social, economic, political, geographical, and existential peripheries of our world.
