Staff Reflection

Two weeks ago in my 8th grade Religion class, we were talking about God promising Abraham many descendants. The covenant or promise that God made with Abraham was ridiculed because of Abraham's advanced age, but, God was faithful.

We discussed the possibility of us not realizing God's continued promise to be with us always and what gets in the way – things, devices, social situations, worries and concerns, etc. When asked what would help them remember God's presence and faithfulness, the students acknowledged that they need more quiet, more time to focus, more time like we take every Monday to pray quietly before the Blessed Sacrament at adoration.

I walked out of class that morning asking myself the same question – what do I need to make sure that God's presence and faithfulness is uppermost on my mind and in my heart? Perhaps it is repeating the Responsorial Psalm refrain over and over throughout the day – The Lord remembers his covenant forever. Perhaps it is being aware of all the goodness in my day – the beauty of the sky, the gorgeous sunrise, the laughter of the students in school, the sharing between colleagues?

As I was reflecting on these readings and praying with the Gospel, the last line stuck with me "...For the Holy Spirit will teach you at that moment what to say." Perhaps my prayer needs to be to the Holy Spirit – to ask for insight and appreciation – to ask for awareness and gratitude – to ask for inspiration, courage and wisdom. Maybe then, with an open heart, I will be able to realize God's constant faithfulness to me? Or, maybe I need to follow the example of our 8th graders and take more time for quiet and prayer before the Blessed Sacrament? Have a great week!

Patricia O'Donnell
